

Sharing Workplace Best Practices, Inspiring Workplace Innovation

Organizational Development Network Long Island (ODNLI) nurtures a community of organizational development practitioners and shares workplace best practices to inspire innovation.

Membership

Our members include corporate managers and specialists, trainers, coaches, human resource personnel, internal and external consultants, academicians, students, and other professionals interested in making their organization, department or team more effective. We work in a wide variety of environments, including business, academic, government, and non-profit. Similarly, our members bring an array of industry and work experience -- from banking to utilities, and from corporate conglomerates to local community organizations. Annual membership is $100 for professionals and $40 for students.

Member Benefits

Our membership benefits include monthly events and programs designed to enhance learning and to encourage interaction amongst our peers. Our programs include panel discussions and structured workshops. Attention is given to Long Island's unique make up of industries and its diverse community. Our programs are targeted for small, medium and large organizations.

Specific ODNLI member benefits include:

- Free admission to monthly meetings and programs
- Keep current with professional trends
- Increase your body of knowledge
- Acquire new skills
- Meet and network with other professionals
- Access to job listings and other ODNLI resources
- Consult with your peers on industry issues
- Access to the member-only ODNLI collaboration Web site

Sponsors

